Pastor Richard P. Beobide

Father sometimes I offend you.

I know Jesus died because we have all offended you.

I believe God You raised Jesus from the dead.

Save me from my desires that offend you.

Jesus of Nazareth

I confess that you are Savior & Lord.

Forgive me for offending you in Jesus name I pray, Amen.

Here is your job description from now on!

Do no more evil

Tell about Jesus

Be baptized, Learn about Him in your Bible.

Pondering the mysteries of creation.

In Today's society, information is being gathered at break-neck speed and the people of the world society are unable to keep pace philosophically. In other words, everyone (I believe) has questions about our own existence and perhaps even the hereafter. The problem is: we're so busy with the cares of this life: competing and making a living we don't have time to ask ourselves very important questions: worse yet it's more difficult to find good answers to them. For instance: parenting, work ethics, God, the hereafter and so on!

As the medical profession came of age it realized that there is more to medicine than drugs and doctors. The patient's awareness, nutrition, good self-maintenance, and faith all play an important part. Science, mathematics and technology has come of an age where they disregard God as a force and replaced Him with "First Cause" (That is, all things "created" were the effects of earlier events), as discussed in an earlier article. In my opinion, this is truly unwise on their part, and this article will attempt to address, using the 1st day of creation as an example, what wonderful insight the technology fields have overlooked (or abandoned) philosophically for the sake of a lesser gain.

Genesis 1:1-6

1. In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. 2. And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. 3. And God said Let there be light: and there was light. 4. And God saw the light, that it was good: and God divided the light from the darkness. 5. And God called the light

Day, and the darkness He called Night. And the evening and the morning were the first day 6. And God said, Let there be a firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.

Looking at these 6 verses we immediately see: First there was substance: water, and darkness in place before the creation of the earth ever began. Biblically, this would make sense. Why? First, The Evil One and his minions may have existed prior to this creation. They were cast into darkness before the creation of the earth ever began. Second, Gods selects this watery region contained within the darkness and decides to move on the face of the waters. Third, the pronouncement of Light. Fourth, God divides the light from the darkness. Fifth, in verse 2 the earth was not yet organized into a life sustaining planet, there was just void in Hebrew "void" means chaos. However, we know the elements for its creation were there when God's spirit moved on it. Sixth, God divides water from water. Seventh, God names light Day and Darkness night. Eighth, evening and morning were the first day. Ninth and finally God begins the creation of earth making it the epicenter or focal point of this job. Now, let's see how all this adds up with some help from science guys.

Stephen Hawking candidly mentions something of extreme importance. From the perspective of the earth, the universe looks the same in whichever direction we look. Furthermore, It appears that all other galaxies are moving away from us. Making it appear as though we are the center of the universe. However, it is assumed according to Friedman

(Friedman's second assumption) this same phenomenon would occur from the perspective of any other point in any other galaxy too (but! That is a theory and an improvable assumption; we would have to travel to a distant galaxy to observe the universe from that perspective). However, as Hawking states "we believe it only on the grounds of modesty: it would be remarkable if the universe looked the same around us, but not around other points in the universe!"

So what's the point Rick? Well, the Bible refers to the region of earth as a center of activity as it regards earth's development. Moses' writings show us how, from the earth's perspective, creation is moving away from us. Interestingly, Science uses The Doppler Theory, and color shift to reveal how the universe is moving away from us in all directions. So, we can say with reasonable certainty that scripture agrees with science; Moses' revelation from God shows creation is expanding away from us, and after many years the scientific community is now agreed it to!

Does Moses reveal the possibility of a universe? Yes! Moses reveals God selected the earth. Because the term "selected" is used, I don't think it would be a stretch to say there were other resources that God could have picked from. This could suggest the possibility of earth's selection from amongst many in the universe. Cleary Moses writings of Genesis are a very deep treasure. It is fair to say, science would be wise in considering the real question; how did Moses know these things? Simple! He didn't! Instead he trusted God. God knew. Moses was obedient in doing what God commanded him to do. That was to write these things down in a book. See you next time in Mystery & Logic!
